

We're good to go and COVID safe destinations

The Republic of Ireland and the UK have introduced a standard set of criteria to ensure the tourism sector continues to operate safely and respectfully in these times. We have invested in training our staff and refitting our coaches to ensure they are perfectly safe to travel on given the new protocols. We will also now only work with hotels, attractions, restaurants and other tourism businesses who have received the 'We're Good to Go' mark (UK) and the Covid-19 Safety Charter (Ireland) in their respective country.

Mandatory Vaccinations

As a result of travel restrictions and requirements for many attractions and hospitality establishments in Ireland and the UK, and to keep our guests, our team, and our travel partners safe, we will require guests to be fully vaccinated to travel on a 2022 coach or sightseeing tour. You will be asked to present this proof at the start of your trip.

While On Tour

If you are on a coach or sightseeing tours, RIT's expert tour managers and drivers are there for your safety and comfort throughout. The following changes have been made for 2022:

- We will be using larger coaches to allow for more room on board, with free seats and plenty of space for social distancing.
- The coaches will be thoroughly sanitized daily and the airflow on board will be 100% fresh air from outside.
- We are working closely with all hotels, attractions, restaurants and other partners in Ireland and the UK to ensure the tours can run smoothly. This includes timed visits at certain attractions, group check-in at hotels and more intimate dining experiences for some of our included meals.
- Our tour managers and drivers are expertly trained to deal with a variety of unexpected situations that may arise and will be on-hand to assist you with any questions or concerns while on tour.

Flexible booking policy

In this ever-changing environment, we have updated our terms & conditions to allow you more flexibility when booking a vacation with RIT. Once you book and deposit with us, you can change your departure date or tour for any reason up to 60 days prior to departure. The deposit is transferable to another date within 1 year of the initially scheduled trip departure date. Valid for new bookings only made until March 31, 2022.
